THE Latest BUZZ (as of May 31 2023 midnite)

(a Short Take On Present Buzz) by Mick Burton, Buzz Editor

YES! Now # 107 In case you are a new reader, the Issue number is off by one always, since # 0 was outset of this lark. That clarified or muddied, let's get to some actual important business!

“ WE CHOSE TO GO TO THE MOON and DO THE OTHER THINGS ”

On the first Saturday of 2022, November 05, Fremont Hornets landed on the shores of the Fremont Elks Lodge as we had hoped to do one day, and saw to it we had a damned good time hosting a Contest & Show in our unique style. This edition of the Hornets Buzz V.1 is a first of its kind Special Issue to celebrate in part !

Now mind you, I'd planned to try this idea out with this event before, having successfully worked through by now 6 editions of the same for the SV Classic. But having also learned from that experience how much effort it can become, I am sort of happy that first time I have done one for the TriCity Classic became this thematic.

A lot transpired between when this TriCity was first conceived and when launch countdown began, almost a Five year mission to go where no Hornet had gone before as it turned out. Yet here we are now, it's part of our rich history of TriCity Classics, and already on the horizon is about to dawn... YES! ANOTHER SHOW

SO enjoy this recap and illustrated review, and keep your modelling desk ready while I get the news ready.

NOW OPENING: A LONGER LOOK BACK AT TRICITY 14

Five Years in the making, at least on paper that is how it looked. Truly was five months actually from point we were able to be securing a date with our chosen locale, first time ever.

The Free Hornets have had now 14 TriCity Classics, 11 of them consecutively using a fine simple “Movie/Geography” framing plot that began with “The Italian Job” movie and focused on Italy, Italian items.

The Contest Director chose to use the planned 2018 theme of which was going to get ahead of any and all who were going to celebrate the 50th annum of the Apollo Moon Landing. Long ago, two Free Hornets had idea we should do a “Lunacy” theme which inspired this Director to find a way (this way) to work it.

So, finally, a chance to run the gamut, anything Space Related real or fictional, and have fun.

Some of the fun the Contest Director had on the way to delivering the event can be seen here. Examples of the 1/2/3 awards designs devised, with original art for the first printings of Jules Verne's book (published in 1865!!) which formed the basis of the 1958 Movie of the same title, and the brilliant 1998 HBO Miniseries with again the same title, all influenced what he did. One of the key areas for this event was a solution to properly expanding the Real Space category from traditional single one into a reasonable grouping, seeking to actually gain some entries. After all, the 4 divisions seen below would otherwise have to be where the entrants would all funnel, so essentially a Saturn V rocket assembly could be competing with an Apollo LEM, a Gemini Capsule, a Mercury Redstone, a Voyager deep space vehicle, a Sputnik and a Skylab, with a Lunar Rover tossed in. Oh yes, you may answer, you could just split category at the show on that day to solve this. Optimist, rarely the time or folks Available to properly perform this feat, and ever more rarely that Real Space would get such attention. In any case, this was Contest Director's chance to try at least, see what may come of it, and plan to repeat it once again perhaps in next TriCity.

When a nasty turn of events midstream (unexpected computer crash, backups scant) helped upset things, the Director had To attempt to expedite creating awards faster once data, research and plan was recovered. So examples like the simple NASA Meatball design became a method employed for awards less likely to be given out or where Space was irrelevant.

In other cases though, specific efforts were made to bring honor and respect to the theme, such as the two different usages of the NA X-15 craft. The black & white version shows a later veteran astronaut with the bird he flew before ending up in space proper. The color one shows a “local” who perished in the last flight of this extremely successful manned spacecraft, Michael Adams of Sacramento CA. Very likely those two awards in category would be given out at the TC-14, sought quality

Some more examples of what came to be used as potential awards. This time notes of possible permanent splits, refashioned category ideas from TC-13 were put to use

Among them, splitting often heavily entered nonhistoric Figures in two sizes (below)

This turned out to be a good idea, the split of Dioramas into two of distinct sizes also worked well. It will continue for TriCity 15...

Part of the reason for focusing on the award designs here in this first ever "Special Issue TriCity" Buzz is Director didn't get to taking a lot of show pictures. The grand set of shots of models in attendance by Vladimir Yakubox made this issue.

Lastly, a brief look at the much better Junior/Youth Award designs wholly the work of Maria, who also did all the Senior Auto 1/2/3 designs for me. Thanks to her mother Uschi, and herself, the Director managed to rebuild momentum to be having show with most of the schedule and components intact, on time. They and the appreciated skeleton staff, attendees made a great show

As such, quality of the model is adjudged for only half of the weighted score.
